

DEBENHAMS

Automated Bagging System.

“ This automated solution supports our approach to meeting the challenges of servicing customer orders within tight timescales across the range of delivery options that we now offer. Conveyor Networks have proved to be partners in service delivery working with a number of different parties and continuing to help us refine the system and realise its full potential. ”

Objectives

An outbound despatch system that would manage the high volumes generated by Debenhams sales activity and enable them to meet a variety of fulfilment commitments including.

- Next day national delivery for all orders placed before 10pm.
- Evening, weekend and nominated day deliveries.
- To provide real time reporting on pre-defined KPIs.
- To despatch a varied product range.
- Reduce reliance on manual systems.

System Delivered

At Debenhams imio controls a complex automation solution incorporating real time packing, label design and print as well as dynamic printing of all customer specific paperwork.

The software provides real time reporting and QA, and seamless integration with Debenhams Warehouse Management and Carrier Management systems.

- Throughput - up to 800 pieces/hr
- Efficiency - the printing, labelling and bagging solution are integrated with the product flow automatically, imio scans both SKU and pack slip to ensure integrity.
- IT integration - all functions are controlled by imio software which communicates directly with all systems and collates data for processing and reporting.

imio Software Solutions is a UK software business specialising in warehousing and fulfilment. imio began life as a software interface to complement the automation solutions offered by Conveyor Networks Limited. Although still part of Conveyor Networks, demand for imio software has grown to the extent it is now a separate sister company of Conveyor Networks.

imio is a software suite designed to cover all aspects of warehouse management. It can integrate with both host IT systems and automated equipment, but also be deployed as a fully fledged WMS, for ecommerce and multi-channel brands.

It successfully powers key elements of the warehouse operations of UK brands such as QVC, Virgin Media, Gamesseek, Debenhams, The Book People and many more.
